

Write Night

A Gathering of Puget Sound Fiction & Nonfiction Writers

Write Night is a weekly facilitated writers' support group. Get regular feedback, publishing and marketing advice and a chance to share your writing with people who understand you. Write Night can become your built-in deadline and help you produce high-quality manuscripts.

"I come away from each meeting enriched as a writer and inspired to return the following week with a piece of writing that I probably wouldn't get done otherwise." Write Night Participant, Reni

Get Positive Feedback!

“Chris and Leslie have created a truly beautiful forum for writers - respectful and genuine. Personally, I know that this group has improved my writing exponentially. It is a very special group. I'm just glad I found them.” Write Night Participant, Rob

Your Write Night Facilitators:

CHRISTINE DUBOIS is an awarding-winning nonfiction writer and editor. Her warmth, knowledge, and enthusiasm make her a popular instructor.

LESLIE ADKINS is a well-received writing instructor who likes to infuse humor in her teaching. She has written several novels and won first place in mystery in the 2014 PNWA writing contest. She has participated in a writing critique group herself for over 18 years.

“I've been in several writing classes, and this one gives me the most helpful feedback. And I think it's an incredibly talented group of people. I feel privileged to be among them.” Write Night Participant, Marcia
